Beauty

Mental Charm, Animation and a Useful Collection of "Don'ts" From Grace Field

GRACE FIELD'S MAXIMS OF BEAUTY

Beauty may come by the grace of Heaven—but you must give it a proper welcome.

My mother stands as my link with God and Heaven.

"How to avoid being ugly" is the best beauty secret.

Don't use other people as stepping stones to success—help them up instead.

It takes sunshine to grow beauty and happiness and friendship.

GRACE FIELD'S MAGNETIC BEAUTY

"PERHAPS you think that beauty comes by the grace of heaven—well, even if it comes that way it only stays when it is made very welcome. And the best way to welcome beauty is to set most earnestly about not being ugly."

My mother—with her sweet, helpful sympathy—stands as my link with God and Heaven.

Miss Field, the fascinating Anna of "Lieber Augustin" at the Casino Theatre, instead of lovable Grace Field in her own beautiful home.

Her Don'ts.

"My don'ts"—which stand for "How to avoid being ugly" seem to me to be the cardinal beauty secret. Don't worry. Don't dwell on your troubles even if they are big enough to be griefs. Don't get bitter over burdens; that will corrode the sweetness of your nature. It will make your smile acid instead of sweet and make your eyes hard and cold instead of sweet and wistful.

Don't use other people as stepping stones to your success. Help them up instead. Don't insist on receiving all the time. It is great fun to give—and if you can give nothing more than a cheerful smile and a friendly greeting, you'll find that gift will make happiness and friends grow in your personal sunshine. It takes sunshine to grow things, you know—beauty and friendship and the joy of a generous nature.

"I suppose any of us would like to be as beautiful as a poet's dream—or the artist's choice of the "most beautiful woman in America." But I have noticed one thing—women who are radiantly beautiful are rarely brilliant. A beauty has to take care of every one of her physical charms. And if she is wise she will add a few mental charms for the "rainy day" of aging loveliness.

The girl who is frankly not a beauty can cultivate some splendid "just as good as what you ask for." An air of breeding, simple charm of manner, animation, merry sweetness, good humor and sympathetic attitude toward life are fine substitutes for beauty.

You look at the woman who is merely beautiful, but you look at the Venus de Milo too, and you don't invite her to dinner. For a companion you choose the girl who is interesting and sweet-mannered. Becoming clothes, physical cleanliness, brains and a graceful manner certainly give a girl charm. With a sweet nature blossoming out into a sweet smile a girl can make a beautiful woman.

"There is a glamor and a fascination and a charm about the radiant expression of liking it here on earth. I said I knew something just as good as the fatal beauty of Helen of Troy. ABUNDANT FLUFFY HAIR IS IMPOSSIBLE IF YOU HAVE DANDRUFF

How often we hear a beautiful woman referred to as having a regal head!

Denude that head of its hair and instead of a queenly, royal bearing we have a fright. The hair makes the difference. To have that glorious abundance of radiant hair which always crowns "a regal head," one should use Newbro's Herpicide.

Herpicide represents the last word in scientific hair culture. It destroys the dandruff checks falling hair and corrects generally, diseases of the hair and scalp.
